

RALEIGH

MAGAZINE

THE PERFECT PRESENT

WAREHOUSE DISTRICT

LOGO LOCO

PARK LIKE A LOCAL
Tips and Tricks

PETITE PIES

HOLIDAY ISSUE

Treat
Your Feet

+ 93
GIFT IDEAS

SANTACON GETUPS

Jennifer Robertson

Kevin Tyndall and Shannan Legge with Ben

Kevin Tyndall

Kevin Tyndall and his partner Shannan Legge welcomed their son, Ben, in July.

“Shannan and I met when she was working at All About Beer and I was at Natty Greene’s. We enjoy getting outdoors, attending concerts and anything sports related to NC State or the Green Bay Packers.”

Tyndall changed jobs too, leaving Natty Greene’s to work as a sales manager at Appalachian Mountain Brewery.

Tyndall, an NC State alumnus, said he’s adjusted pretty well to all the changes. We wondered what’s surprised him the most: “How quickly a child can change your life!”

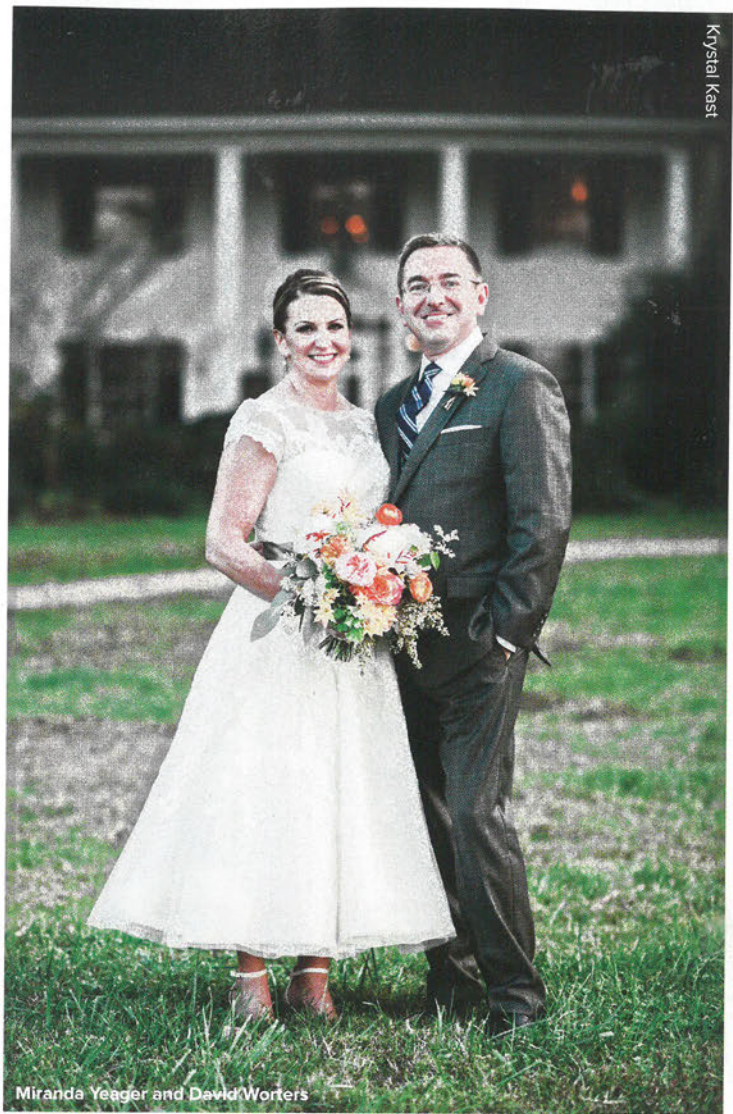

Nunzio Scordo

Restaurant proprietor and chef Nunzio Scordo has long kept our bellies buzzing with both the savory and sweet at his restaurants, Farina and Driftwood Southern Kitchen. But changes are on the horizon.

“Farina is under contract to sell this month,” he says. “I’m working on two new projects that I’m very excited about but can’t reveal yet. But really not a lot has changed in my personal life.”

Scordo spends a lot of time traveling, frequenting his favorite places and experiencing whatever life offers up.

“I go to Asheville often,” he says. “It resets my internal clock, and the mountains are my haven. I love the people there too. I’m planning a trip to Europe soon, and I’m going to San Fran next month. I have some friends there, and the food scene is the best, in my opinion. Getting myself back into meditation and trying to improve myself all around. When the right person comes along, I’ll be ready.”

Krystal Kast

Miranda Yeager and David Worters

David Worters

We caught up with this Harvard graduate just eight days after he got married.

“We met online: match.com. We probably knew within a month that we were going to spend the rest of our lives together,” says Worters, a realtor with Hodge, Kittrell and Sotheby’s.

The couple met in November of 2016 and married less than a year later.

“We got engaged in late July, early August. We didn’t have the venue nailed down until September, so we planned the whole thing in 60 days. Fearrington House made it easy. The whole thing was magical. The skies cleared about two hours before the ceremony; we were able to do the ceremony and cocktails outdoors.”

The couple loves live entertainment—including sports and music. Worters jokes he married into Alabama football.

“She is a raging Alabama Crimson Tide football fan. So when Alabama football is on, the world stops. In fact, that was our first trip together, to see an Alabama football game.”

It’s a second marriage for both; Worter’s daughter, 14, gave a toast on the special day.

“My daughter reported to everyone that she knew we were going to get married. She had started making a wedding binder and Pinterest page with wedding stuff almost as soon as she met her.”